NABD has conducted three national surveys covering the use of payment devices and authored three "white papers" on the findings. Our conclusion is that there are two types of operators in the BPH industry: those who already use these devices and those who should! A panel of device providers will explain why you should reach the same conclusion. Your workbook contains a payment device checklist to help guide you through the decision process during and after this conference. Are you using the right devices now? How you can improve your collection results and efficiency with these devices and how to integrate them successfully? What mistakes do operators make when using and implementing them? What are the compliance concerns? Should you disclose their usage? In this workshop you will learn best practices from leading device providers and then meet with them in the Solutions Hall.
